

Merit Willey
720-812-1153
meritawilley@gmail.com

February 23, 2023

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am extremely excited to be applying for this script writer position as Crash Course. I grew up on Crash Course, and cannot begin to describe how many topics it helped me to fully understand and digest. I was a particularly engrossed fan of the Greek Theatre videos! I have been studying writing for over 7 years, and while I have limited work experience, approximately 75% of the last five years was spent writing. I love to research, and I have a passion for education. I know that Crash course, would push me outside of my comfort zone and give me the opportunity to grow as a writer and a team member.

I came upon your job listing on Indeed, and my heart jumped. It was like looking at a listing made for me. I studied Art and Theatre at the University of Denver, and received my minor in Applied writing practices. You can hardly imagine my joy at finding a job listing that somehow combined everything I have been studying for the past five years. I have a passion for art history and storytelling. On occasion I will try to summarize information for my friends who don't share this passion, and it is a running joke and compliment that they like my versions far better than any textbook or movie.

Over the past two years, I have been providing occasional blog posts for my mother's website, Practically Raw Woman. I'll admit, the casual nature of blog writing took some getting used to, but now it comes more naturally than the academic language to which I had become accustomed. MY focus on the blog has been, easy to make recipes that are affordable for college students, and a section called "Sexy Raw" that focuses on aphrodisiacs, and how to bring Raw vegan into the bedroom. My inclusion in this blog, however limited, has widened the readership to include multiple age groups and, not to toot my own horn... has had some of the most engagement on the site!

I thank you for your consideration. I know that I am green, but I will put everything I have into creating fun, engaging content that truly educates. I am detail oriented and refuse to do anything less than amazing work. I'm looking forward to learning more about the Script Writer Position at Crash Course. Education is one of the most important things to me, and I would be honored to be a part of your team.

Sincerely,

Merit Willey